Subcommittee Will Study Assessments

With the approval of Mississippi House Speaker John R. Junkin, C. B. Newman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has appointed a special recess Ways and Means subcommittee to make a detailed study of assessment statutes, assessment practices within the state, homestead exemption statutes, and the additional cost to the state that would be incurred by granting total ad valorem tax exemption for persons 65 years of age or older and persons in various categories of disability.

Representative Charles Deaton of Greenwood has been designated as chairman of this subcommittee and William A. Wilkerson of Lucedale has been named vice-chairman. The other members of the subcommittee are: Devan Dallas, Harold Fortenberry, Dan Harvey, George S. Carruth, James Morrow, John Pearson, Gladys Slayden, James C. Simpson and Jack Gordon.

Newman stated that various organizations and groups interested in the problem of equalization of assessments will be given an opportunity to express their views before this subcommittee.

COAST ENTREPRENEUR—Clarinetist Pete Fountain and Jack P. Dean, president of Lamar Life Insurance Co., exchange mutual nods of approval Wednesday as Dean signs the purchase contract giving Fountain ownership of the Biloxi Buena Vista Hotel. At the same time, Fountain said that he would not abandon plans for his property on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis and hoped to construct a motel complex there.

Board Certifies Funds For Runway

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors gave final approval Monday for matching funds on the Stennis Airport runway extension allowing the Port and Harbor Commission to go ahead with the $2.5 million project.

Although the Federal Aviation Administration is providing half of the money necessary for the extension, the county had to certify the matching funds before the FAA monies could be obtained.

Originally, Hancock County was scheduled to provide only forty percent of the matching money with a ten percent grant coming from the Economic Development Administration. However, a foul up in submitting the EDA application left the county short by about $380,000.

The additional $380,000 will be obtained with a one-mill ad valorem rebate from the state and will be used only if the EDA grant is not approved. Supervisors stressed that taxes will not be raised to finance the additional cost to the county.

The lone dissenting vote on the proposal was by Beat One Supervisor Jerry Ladner.

In other port and harbor business, the board voted to reject all bids on the runway extension and to accept new bids June 26. T. L. James who was low bidder on the project was approximately fifteen percent over the engineer's estimate.

However, the low bid submitted on the runway and taxiway lighting was accepted by the board with the stipulation that Gibson Electric Co. would hold its bid firm even though work can not be started as soon as expected. Gibson's bid was $94,591.

The board also agreed that the port and harbor commission could enter into a contract with TACA Airlines that three aircraft be parked at Stennis Airport at a fee of $75 per month for each aircraft until a new fixed base operator is hired.

A recent disagreement between TACA and Stennis Field Flying Service over tie-down fees resulted in the termination of the flying service's contract.

In other business, supervisors also: Accepted a resolution from the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce supporting the board's action on the runway extension.

Agreed to attend the dedication of Salmen Reservation, Yee Bar Ranch in Hancock County on June 24.

The board will meet Tuesday at 9 a.m.

Three Arrested On Drug Charges

Two men and a young woman were arrested for possession of a quantity of narcotics and paraphernalia when Hancock County special agents found the three asleep on Highway 90 west of Waveland about midnight Monday.

According to a report by Agents Ronald Peterson and Paul Bernard, Janet E. Smith, 24, and Charles H. Smith, 30, were sleeping on the highway median and Wilmer Karl Mayson, Jr., 20, was asleep in a car parked at the side of the highway. The car was obstructing traffic, Peterson said.

A search of the vehicles revealed several plastic bags of a substance believed to be LSD and mescaline, a small quantity of marijuana, drug tablets and various articles of paraphernalia.

Mayson, who gave an Alabama address, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and obstructing traffic. Charles Smith was charged with possession of LSD, marijuana, drug paraphernalia and using obscene language. The Smith woman was booked for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. The latter two listed Georgia addresses.

The agents were assisted in the case by Deputy Robert Tartavouille and Constable Terry Tartavouille.

New Orleans clarinetist Pete Fountain told The Sea Coast Echo Wednesday that he plans to build a motel on his Highway 90 property in Bay St. Louis instead of the previously announced condominium complex.

Denying recent reports that he had abandoned all plans for his development in the Bay, Fountain said that he felt "a motel concept was best."

Fountain was interviewed Wednesday during the contract signing for the purchase of the Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi from Lamar Life Insurance Company.

He ruled out the possibility of his building condominiums on his property at the corner of Highway 90 and N. Beach Blvd. Fountain said that he had not been too happy with a feasibility study that had been conducted on the property and added that a second study was planned.

Fountain emphasized the importance of a positive feasibility study explaining that if it was not good, he could not obtain the needed money from his financial backers.

"I still think the motel concept is best," Fountain said.

"I can't brag enough on the cooperation I received from city officials in Bay St. Louis for the project here," he continued. "I would say that there were only two or three persons against us."

FRED FAYARD SR.

Fred Fayard Services Held

Fred E. Fayard Sr., 80, lifelong resident of Bay St. Louis, died at 7 p.m. Sunday, May 27, at Driftwood Nursing Center, Gulfport, where he had been a patient for six months. Born March 31, 1903, in Bay St. Louis, he was the son of the late Alphonse and Almedia Bourgeois Fayard.

Mr. Fayard was a retired salesman with the former Engman's Drygoods Store. He was a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Active in local church and civic affairs, he was a veteran of World War I, serving with the U.S. Army. He was a member of American Legion, Post 130, the Forty and Eight and was associated with the Boy Scouts of America in Bay St. Louis for a number of years. He was the recipient of the Scout's Silver Eagle award.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Sadonia Fayard, Bay St. Louis; four sons, Lt. Col. Freddie Fayard Jr., Gulfport; James A. Fayard, Marshall, Texas; Cyril J. Fayard, Houston, Texas; and Larry D. Fayard, Denham Springs, La.; a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Reinburg, Rockville, Md.; 19 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning from Riemann-Fabey Funeral Home followed by a Requiem Mass at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church with Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, and Rev. Patrick McDermott, St. James Parish, Gulfport, officiating.

Interment with military service by American Legion Post 130, was in Cedar Rest Cemetery.

Still Hopes To Go With Bay Project

Fountain comically rolled his eyes when he referred to a petition carried by a Bay St. Louis group "that must have contained 10,000 names."

"Those people must have gone to New Orleans to get all those signatures," he said jokingly.

Describing his reception in Bay St. Louis as "fantastic," Fountain said he had never had anything similar happen to any of his businesses.

He also said he would definitely keep his summer home in the Bay.

"In fact," Fountain said, "I'll soon be referring to my New Orleans residence as my winter home."

He indicated that he would commute to New Orleans and Biloxi from his Bay residence.

Asked how long it would be before he began making serious plans for the motel, Fountain grinned and said, "First I have to cut the grass and then maybe I can get someone to talk to us about it."

Part of the complete renovation and refurbishing program planned at Pete Fountain's Buena Vista will be a new health spa facility for men and women. This health spa will be directed by a professional dietician and there will be a physician to examine every guest prior to their undergoing weight and exercise programs. Supplementing the health spa will be diet controlled meals and regular entertainment.

The hotel will immediately install four new, all-weather, fenced and night illuminated tennis courts. A tennis pro will be hired, and a tennis club created. Both the health spa and the tennis club will be open for a limited membership for Coast residents.

Negotiations are currently underway for a modern dress boutique, men's dress shop, beauty and barber shop, and a jewelry concession.

The new owners who include attorney Steve Plotkin and Judge David Gerfler currently own and operate the DeVille Motel in New Orleans. This acquisition represents the second in a series of expansion movements into the hotel business which will gradually expand into a five-state area within the next two years.

Lamar Life has operated the Buena Vista since Feb. 3, 1972, and according to Jack P. Dean, president, has invested approximately $150,000 in capital improvements since its acquisition.

Dean extended the gratitude of Lamar Life to Buena Vista General Manager Lewis M. Gerfler, Jr., and his staff, the Biloxi business community, city officials, delegates to the various conventions during 1972 and 1973 and hotel guests for making the operation a success.

Board Discusses Athletic Needs

Athletic coaches at Hancock North Central School told county school board members during a Tuesday meeting that the prevalent misconception of friction between the two men was not true.

Basketball coach Roland Ladner and football coach Erwin Favre assured the board that in the three years since Favre has been at the school, both men have worked together in harmony and cooperation, often under rather adverse circumstances. Ladner is in his tenth year at the county school.

The matter came up following an explanation of new athletic department financial policies by Edward LeVasseur, financial consultant to the school board. Favre complained of athletic equipment losses and thefts at the school. He said nine windows had been broken in an area where the equipment is stored, but although the theft had occurred some time ago, the windows are still not repaired.

Favre said he and Ladner were glad for an opportunity to meet with the school trustees and Superintendent Kenneth McCarty to discuss their problems at the school, as well as for the chance to dispel the persistent rumors of contention and rivalry between the football and basketball departments. It should be apparent to the board, he continued, that he and Ladner worked well together, and he lauded Ladner for many instances of assistance when Favre was trying to develop a football program.

Favre asked the board's help in developing what he termed a "whole sports program" at the school, rather than emphasizing one or two sports. Ladner alluded to the past practice by certain factions of promoting the basketball-football rivalry to cover up more serious deficiencies in the school system. That, he said, is what they wanted most to overcome.

The two coaches also expressed a list of needs at the school which included better facilities for a physical education program for the younger children; rooms in the gym for lectures, films and indoor activities; and more adequate restrooms. Ladner described broken bleachers in the gym, holes in the ceilings of the shower rooms and inoperative plumbing. Coach Favre, he said, should have an assistant coach for a PeeWee team as well as facility for a winter training program. There are inadequate lockers and dressing rooms for the students, he added.

Although the board was cognizant of their problems, Board President Horace Davis said, there are certain priorities that must be considered. The school system does have a building program, he explained, and bid advertisements for additions to Hancock North Central and Gulfview were to be published in the Echo this week. However, a matter of top priority was construction of another high school in the Lakashore-Clermont Harbor area as over-crowded conditions at HNC were causing most of the current problems.

Ideally, the three schools at HNC should be separated as 1,200 students in a school built for 700 makes discipline almost impossible, trustee Eric Larsen stated.

Adequate funding for all the necessities was the drawback and it is to this end that the board is working, Davis concluded.

In an earlier discussion, LeVasseur outlined new policies for athletic department expenditures, which he said to be effective must be strictly adhered to. He attributed poor management on the part of former administrators at HNC for over purchasing of equipment and needless capital outlays. A lack of coordination between principals and coaches often led to sizable deficits in the account at the end of the year.

LeVasseur's suggestions for revision included setting up guidelines for purchasing supplies and materials, with limitations on total expense figures. When possible, pre-season ordering of all supplies from one supplier would be of great value, and the activity fund account and monies should be kept separate from all other school accounts, he maintained.

Martial Law Is Where You Find It

Living in a small town, although regarded with some disdain by metropolitan sophisticates, can be exciting. In fact, there are times when it can be downright adventurous.

The following is an example of one of the more exciting adventures which can befall residents of a neighboring small town.

One evening relatively early, a retired sea captain watching television in his living room, became aware that a prowler was in the process of breaking into his kitchen.

Going swiftly to the telephone, he looked in the front cover of the phone book for the local police number. As he dialed he heard the intruder making progress as he pried the door lock open.

The phone rang and rang.

No answer. Anxiously, the resident referred to the book again. A second number was listed under "If no answer dial...." Odd, he thought, police stations usually have only one number, manned round the clock.

After what seemed an interminable time and countless rings, a pleasant female voice said simply, "Hello."

"Is this the police?", our friend breathed into the phone. The sounds in his kitchen suggested that entry had been successful.

"He isn't here right now. I'm his wife. Can I do something for you?"

"Listen," he blazed desperately, "There's someone breaking into my house! Send a policeman and hurry!" "Well-!" Some of the pleasantness was replaced with an edge of annoyance. "Are you sure?"

"Of course I'm sure. I can hear him going through the cupboards and drawers. He's probably got half the silver by now. Look, isn't there a policeman available SOMEWHERE?"

"Well, he might be at his sister's, but it's pretty late to be calling." Obviously irritated (she had missed the best part of her television show), she gave him a number and hung up.

As he dialed that number, the captain heard strange gurgling noises in the kitchen. He realized with horror what it was. My God, he thought, as the phone rang endlessly, I hope it's the $5 bourbon and not my $12 scotch he's gotten into.

Finally someone answered. "I haven't seen him all day," she allowed blithely, and helpfully offered another number.

Reason turned to panic. With my luck, he thought, he's a homicidal maniac instead of a petty thief. Maybe he'll be too drunk to do much...he dialed feverishly. This time a swift answer. "Fire Department!"

"I don't want a fireman," he almost shrieked. "I want a POLICEMAN!"

"Then what did you call the firehouse for?" Hysteria set in. "Isn't there a policeman in this whole town?"

"Yeah, they're up at Six Acres drinking coffee. I'm a policeman...auxiliary."

"Great. Come quick. I've got a prowler in my house."

"Sorry, buddy, I can't leave the station. I'm on duty as a fireman tonight. Now if you have a fire..."

At this point, he realized that the prowler, a long-haired young man, was standing behind him with the depleted bottle of scotch and a glass in his hand.

"Hey, man, you're new around aren't you? You ain't never going to get a policeman like that. It's a real bummer in this town."

He poured liquor into the glass and offered it to the frustrated sea captain.

"Have a drink and calm down. I'll show you how to get the fuzz."

Numb with disbelief, the captain grabbed the bottle and took a long draft. He couldn't talk for a minute and as soon as his eyes quit watering, he did feel better.

After a second go at the bottle, he didn't feel anything. "What you have to do, man, if you really want a policeman," the youth explained patiently, "is call the sheriff. They got a narc down there who's so gung-ho he'll come for anything. I'll show you."

As he dialed the sheriff's number, he told the older man, "You'd better go get that other bottle."

When the deputies arrived a few minutes later, the two were standing in the front lawn, boisterously throwing empty bottles at a neighbor's mailbox.

As a deputy approached, the older man lobbed a beer can at him, laughing hysterically.

At the county jail, both men were booked for disturbing the peace, public drunk, cursing an officer and resisting arrest. As the cell door clanged shut, the captain was heard shouting loudly, "Anybody knows, when you want a policeman--call the fire house!"

His friend just hiccupped.

PLEASE DON'T SHOOT - at anything but the targets or mound (rear of picture) is the request of County Supervisor H. "Bully" Zengering, who owns the above firing range on Bayou Lacroix Road. Although privately owned and maintained, the range is open to the public, some of whom have violated the privilege by shooting everything in sight. The trash can, roof and uprights of the shelter were so badly riddled by bullet holes Bully had to rebuild the shelter and replace the trash barrel. A nearby artesian well pipe was also shot, causing extensive leakage. Since it's the only firing range in the entire area it would be a shame to have to close it because of a few inconsiderate people. Anyone too stupid to know the difference between the target and the shelter shouldn't be handling a gun.

Vote Tuesday

In both the Democratic primary and runoff, approximately two-thirds of the registered voters in Bay St. Louis went to the polls to cast ballots for three city offices.

This was an outstanding turnout and showed that the Bay St. Louis citizen is indeed interested in city government.

But duty doesn't end there. On June 5, incumbent Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver will face Republican candidate William Frisbie. In the race for Commissioner, Post Two, Democratic nominee Clarence Ladner will face independent candidate Buford Parker.

We have a choice. Let's exercise our right once again and vote in the general election Tuesday, June 5.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

Please allow me to comment on the sad account of juvenile crime on page 6 of the May 17 paper. As I've said before, just as we take an aspirin, etc., to reduce fever till the cause is removed, we must confine and punish these youngsters till the cause is removed but that is not the cure. One of the biggest causes is allowing smoking in the schools. Then drinking at school socials. That made it easy for dope to slip in. Cigarettes were bad enough apart from the added evil. Then legalizing liquor, increased more juvenile drinking. Grown people telling children their parents are too hard and are denying them pleasure. If parents want their children to drink and smoke let them do it at home and keep their mouth out of the other parents business. Another thing, they organize various things to give young people things to do, without purpose, and that soon gets tiresome. Have a purpose, a good purpose for doing things. Have the youngsters take pride in what they are doing, not look around to see what someone else is getting. Since the state juvenile detention centers fall short, why not try one that shows the child what's wrong and that they can help from a higher power to live a more joyous and satisfying life? Try the Anchor Home for boys in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. There they have things to do with purpose, that they can be proud to show, and can be proud to say that higher power has plenty room for more needy youth as well as older people. There is also a place for girls. If all concerned will take this into consideration, I believe it will help.

Sincerely,
MRS. A. G. POPE
Pearlington, Miss.

Dear Sir:

Your headline in large print, in issue of 5-24-73, was quite an eye catcher; which drew my attention, to read on to completion.

Paragraph five (5) should draw deep concern from all Hancock County taxpayers, in case they are called upon to pay the other required amount to complete the deal of Stennis Airport Runway.

Here is excerpt from paragraph five: "The Federal Aviation Administration has allotted $1.2 million for the extension; the COUNTY MUST PROVIDE MATCHING FUNDS, before the F.A.A. monies can be received. The Board will make a final decision on this matter when they meet again Monday at 10 a.m."

Now, if all the occupants of Hancock County are required to finance this thing by more taxation, to complete this most reprehensible burden, on the already OVER BURDENED TAXPAYER, they should vehemently and vociferously oppose it.

Those on FIXED INCOME should banish their fear timidity and apathy and let their feelings be known. This high and mighty project with its exploited future potential, isn't worth more robbery of our taxpayers, after all it may end up in state of shabby desolation, like some of our brick school buildings.

Finally, I plead, with all POOR CITIZENS, to keep alert and watch, how and WHERE the FUNDING for COMPLETION of the Runway will come from.

Sincerely,
MRS. ELEANOR EVERETT McFIE
Waveland, Miss.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

It was a Sunday morning, but no hymn tune rang out from the dingy little church deep in the woods near Pittsburg Landing. Instead, there was the crashing of volleys of musketry, men yelling, horses squealing, and, for emphasis, the roar of artillery. Whips cracked, bugles blared, troops cheered, drums rattled, and overall was the constant hum and roar of battle over the whole countryside.

A hundred years later we sat outside the little church of Shiloh on a beautiful Spring morning. Never was there a more peaceful scene, birds singing and wildflowers crowding the bushes. And we thought of that frightful April morning when the church was a first aid station for scores of shattered, bleeding men and their groans and screams of pain were an under-fugue of the sounds of conflict.

A large part of the Confederate troops in the battle came from this part of the country, as Albert Sydney Johnston's army was recruited largely from the Gulf Coast States, and boys from Bay St. Louis and all the settlements from Pearlport to Mobile were part of it. As news and rumors from the battlefield slowly trickled into the little villages, the fears and tensions in the homes, on the streets and in the country stores must have been almost unbearable.

Not far from the Shiloh church where we sat on that Spring morning was the famous sunken road, a wagon path through the woods only two or three feet below the level of the surrounding country, which Confederate troops attacked time after time with staggering losses before finally capturing it and its defending Union troops. Less than a mile away was the spot where General Johnston died; further away was the road down to the beach of the river, crowded during the battle by stragglers and wounded, where Union reinforcements landed that night and swung the victory to General Grant.

It is a relatively short and very beautiful trip from here to Shiloh, up the Trace from Jackson to Tupelo, and one which will amply repay you for the effort. Young people especially should get to know Shiloh, one of the most important historic sites of the Deep South, and certainly one of the loveliest. It is only a memory today, but the young man or woman who sits for a quiet moment beside the old Shiloh church and looks out over the field where nearly three thousand men in blue and gray died for what they believed was the right, will be a stronger person and a better citizen for it.

WHAT A CATCH IT'D BE!

Report from capitol

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Senator John C. Stennis' bill to encourage greater timber production on small, non-industrial tracts of land has been approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee and sent to the Senate for a vote.

The committee incorporated the measure into the more comprehensive Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act, a wide-ranging bill renewing the cotton program and other agricultural programs.

Stennis' proposal, the Forestry Incentives Act of 1973, would authorize the federal government to share with farmers and small landowners the cost of expanding timber production on their lands.

"A sizeable increase in the amount of timber produced in this country will be necessary if we are to meet the demand for wood in the coming years," Senator Stennis said. "The demand for wood in less than thirty years will be twice as great as now."

"Most of the increased production must come from farmers and small landowners who are not now producing timber at the full potential of their land or who cannot afford to plant seedlings or manage timber stands."

"Under this bill, the Secretary of Agriculture can assist landowners by helping them pay for seedlings and by helping them improve forest management techniques."

Senator Stennis introduced a similar version of the bill last year. It passed the Senate by an overwhelming margin but died in a House committee during the final hours of the 1972 session of Congress.

The legislation enjoys widespread national support from farmers and foresters who, along with Senator Stennis, forecast a severe shortage of timber in the coming years.

Senator Stennis said an effective forestry incentives program will add well over two billion board feet of lumber to current timber production in the United States.

The bill now goes to the Senate where it will be considered and voted on probably within the next week. Hearings have been held in the House of Representatives on a companion bill pending there.

County Agent's Notes

County Agent

WEED CONTROL IN EARLY SUMMER PASTURES

Weeds in permanent pastures of bahia grass and bermuda grass can substantially reduce the grazing forage produced if they are controlled according to John W. Smith, County Agent.

The weeds in our pastures are well adapted by natural selection to the area in which they are growing, so they compete severely with the desirable plants for nutrients, moisture and sunlight. Where weeds are heavy, grass does not grow well and cattle often prefer not to graze these areas. Where you are following a good fertility program, you cannot allow the weeds to rob the grass. This time of year the weeds that cause the greatest problem are cypress weeds, dock, smartweed, horseweed, thistle, spiny pigweed, bitterweed, croton (goat weed), ragweed, sunflower, coarctate and sowthistle. The herbicides recommended for the control of these weeds are 2,4-D and dicamba (Banvel). Both of these materials usually contain 4 lbs. technical material per gallon of commercial formulation.

2,4-D is the least expensive herbicide to apply and it gives good control on most small, vigorously growing weeds, but often requires high application rates to control large weeds. The Amine formulation and Low Volatile Ester formulation are available for pastures. The Low Volatile Ester is the hottest formulation and should usually be applied at the lower recommended rates. Also, it is more likely to damage the crop treated but generally gives better control of hard to kill weeds.

The recommended rates for application of 2,4-D are 1.5 to 2 lbs. technical material per acre in 10 to 20 gallons of water (1 to 2 qts. of 4% lbs. per gallon formulation). For 2,4-D to control weeds, these weeds must be vigorously growing. Results are usually best when herbicide is applied on clear, hot days provided the soil has adequate moisture for good vegetative growth. Once weeds have started to flower and are maturing, they are much harder to kill. Often it is wise to clip older weeds like cypress weed and then spray the young, tender regrowth. Always spray on a calm day and reduce spray pressure to about 20 PSI to give large droplet size and reduce drift. Dicamba, sold under the trade name of Banvel, is recommended for application on older, hard to kill weeds like horseweed, smartweed, cypress weed, persimmon, etc. It will control most broadleaf weeds and small brush when applied at the rate of 1 pt. to 2 pt. of Banvel in 20 to 40 gallons of water per acre. This material is rather expensive when applied alone. A combination of Banvel plus 2,4-D is often more economical and more effective than either of the two materials alone. This is not unusual, as many herbicides complement one another when combined.

The manufacturer has recently received a label from the State of Mississippi to sell a prepackaged combination of Banvel (dicamba) and 2,4-D under the trade name of Graser. The state label is not a tank mix but a prepackaged label. This product is applied at 1 quart of formulation per acre (The equivalent of 1/4 lb. of dicamba plus 1/4 lb. of 2,4-D) in 10 to 20 gallons of water.

Care should be taken when applying dicamba to not spray under desirable trees or where the material will be washed or moved into contact with these

Social Security Information

Starting July 1, Medicare coverage will be extended to 1.7 million disabled people under 65.

Disabled people who have received social security disability payments for 2 years or more will be able to get help from Medicare in paying their hospital and doctor bills and other covered services, according to Joseph D. Alfonso, social security representative in Gulfport. Medicare was previously available only to people 65 or over.

"Those eligible for coverage," Mr. Alfonso said, "will include disabled workers, disabled widows and disabled dependent widows between 50 and 65, disabled mothers 50 or older who get social security benefits because they have young or disabled children in their car, and people who get benefits because they were disabled before age 22."

People getting monthly social security checks because they are disabled will be notified if they are eligible for Medicare. Widows 50 or over who have been severely disabled the last 2 years but haven't filed a claim because they're getting checks as mothers caring for young or disabled children should apply for disabled widows benefits to see if they can get Medicare.

"People under 65 who need kidney transplants or dialysis will be eligible for Medicare, too, if they've worked long enough under social security," he said.

"This health insurance protection will also be available to insured workers' wives or husbands and dependent children who need dialysis or kidney transplants," he said.

Eligibility can begin in the 3rd month after dialysis begins and can last through a year after the month dialysis ends or the patient had a kidney transplant.

"Under recent changes in the social security law, the hospital insurance part of Medicare will also be extended to people 65 and older who previously didn't qualify for coverage because they haven't worked long enough under social security," Mr. Alfonso said.

Initially, the premium will be $33 a month for Medicare hospital insurance protection. The premium may increase later if hospital costs rise.

"People buying hospital coverage under this provision will also be required to enroll for medical insurance coverage," Mr. Alfonso said.

Starting July 1, the basic monthly premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare will be $6.30, an increase of 50 cents a month over the current rate.

"Disabled people require seven times as much hospital care as other people and three times as much service from doctors," he said.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

For more information about the changes in Medicare," Mr. Alfonso said, "call, write, or visit any social security office."

The Gulfport social security office is at 62015 Pass Road. The phone number is 896-1323.

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes letters to the editor. Letters should be typed and should deal with pertinent topics. All letters MUST be signed and the name of the writer MUST appear in the paper. No anonymous letters or those signed "Concerned Taxpayer" etc., will be accepted.

FORESTS AND THE ENVIRONMENT

Mississippi's forests are a big factor in the state's economy. They supply forest products valued at more than $150 million annually and provide employment for more than 40,000 people.

Forests are important to our welfare in many other ways. They have value as wildlife habitat, for recreation, water and soil conservation and erosion control. Trees filter out dust from air, lower noise levels, produce oxygen and temper the climate.

Protect forest lands. They are a big asset to the entire state.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Mr. Robert K. McKean. Died June 1, 1966.

God watched you as you suffered. He knew you had your share. He gently closed your weary eyes. And took you in his care. When days are dark and lonely, every thing seems to go wrong. I seem to hear you whisper, cheer up and carry on. Each time I look at your picture. You seem to smile and say Don't grieve, I am only sleeping, we'll meet again some day. YOUR WIFE NELLIE

ATHLETIC NEEDS...

In addition, revenues from football or basketball games should be used to defray expenses for that sport, he said. Before submitted lists for new supplies could be approved, LaVasseur said his office must have an inventory list from each coach. Ladner and Favre each complied with inventory lists at the meeting.

In other business, the board heard an appeal from Mrs. Mae Beyer, executive secretary of the Hancock County United Fund, and Mrs. Eve McDonald, for participation in a payroll deduction plan for county teachers and personnel.

wishing to contribute to the United Fund.

The board gave Mrs. Beyer official permission to address teachers and staffs at the three county schools, working through individual principals, and by unanimous motion, authorized a payroll deduction plan for county school employees.

In an unrelated matter, the board accepted a motion to include trainable retarded children under the jurisdiction of the county school system, in conformance with recent state legislation. A discussion of the matter centered on the necessity of hiring two additional special education teachers for the coming year, although no action was taken on the matter.

Superintendent McCarty informed the board that General Breeland, newly hired as principal of Hancock North Central High School, had resigned the position that afternoon. Breeland gave serious family illness in the Northern part of the state as his reason for the resignation.

The meeting was adjourned until the next regularly scheduled meeting June 5, 9 a.m.

WWI Veterans Install Officers

Hancock County Barracks No. 2837 will host the convention with Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula Barracks as co-sponsors.

A covered dish dinner served by the Ladies Auxiliary followed the business session.

Ship Island Has Litter Problem

Richard A. Stokes, park manager, Gulf Islands National Seashore, has announced that a concentrated effort is underway to inform the general public of the rules and regulations that apply to Ship Island, particularly the problem of litter on Ship Island. Park Service personnel, Explorer Scouts, and the Sierra Club have been working the past few weeks to remove all trash and litter from the island. In order to maintain the island in a clean condition, Stokes is seeking the cooperation of all visitors to the island.

Glass bottles or other glass containers are not permitted on the island. Leave all glass items on board your boat. Trash containers will be provided for you on the excursion boats. No overboard dumping is permitted.

All trash must be carried off the island as there are no trash receptacles available. However, trash bags will be given out when requested. Stokes also requests that no litter be left on the deck as this is especially unsightly to visitors that are arriving for their first visit to Ship Island. This trash will eventually fall into the water and be washed on to the beach, polluting the water for marine bathers.

SUPPLY

IF THESE TWO LINES MEET, WE'RE ALL IN TROUBLE

Keeping everybody supplied with electricity keeps us busy. So that you're sure to have electricity when and where you need it, we have to think ahead almost eight years — that's how long it takes to find the right site for a power plant, obtain approvals from regulatory agencies, construct the plant, and get it "on the line."

It's a fact of modern life that electricity adds comfort and convenience to our homes; runs office and factory equipment; keeps vital transportation and communications systems going; helps grow, store and deliver food; and is cleaning up the environment through recycling, monitoring and filtering processes. And electricity will be called on to do even more in the years ahead.

As long as your electrical needs and our population keep growing, Mississippi Power Company has to keep building to insure that an adequate supply of electric power will continue to be available.

St. Clare Association Elects New Officers

Edward McGinnis, of Waveland, has been installed as president of the St. Clare's Home-School association for the 1973-74 school year by Father John Scanlon, pastor of St. Clare's Catholic church. McGinnis succeeds Richard Zitterkoepf, who served as president of the association for the past two years. Other officers installed by Father Scanlon include Edward Fridgen, vice president; Mrs. Nancy Gen, secretary; Albert Von Ants, treasurer and large. With the exception of Mrs. Gen, who is serving her second term as secretary, all those elected are new officers. Other outgoing officers include Mrs. Paul Handaboe, vice president, Merle Stoufflet, treasurer and William Power as member-at-large.

After the installation services Father Scanlon expressed his deepest thanks to the Dominican Sisters who have done so much for the St. Clare school. Father Scanlon also announced that three teachers would be leaving the school this year. He thanked each one personally for the help they had rendered. Those leaving include Sister Ambrose, Mrs. William Bourgeois, Jr., and Mrs. James DeBlanc.

In his acceptance address, President McGinnis said that the cooperation between officers, members and teachers had been the factor which has characterized the club during the nine years of its existence and he emphasized that if the association was to make real progress during the coming year this cooperation would have to continue. In order to help maintain a true growth, McGinnis said he would be most happy if any member cared to discuss anything with him personally. He said any member should feel free to call him at his home if he could be of any assistance.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Lending Your Tools

Friendly Freddie had no qualms about lending an electric drill to his next door neighbor. But trouble followed fast. While the neighbor was using the drill, he suffered a bad shock. And he put the blame squarely on Freddie. Suing later for damages, the neighbor said Freddie had no business lending him a tool that was dangerous. But Freddie convinced the court that he had been totally unaware of any defect in the drill.

Accordingly, the court held him not liable. The judge said that, inasmuch as Freddie was lending the drill "for free," he should not bear a heavy responsibility for its safety.

Most courts are reluctant to impose liability on the person who is generous enough to lend his tools or equipment. Still, if he actually knows of some hazard, he is usually obliged at least to give the borrower fair warning.

This is particularly true when the borrower is not likely to notice the danger himself. In another accident case, a home owner incurred legal liability by letting a 13-year-old boy use his power saw. Pointing out that the boy had no previous experience with power tools, the court said he was all too likely to get hurt.

On the other hand, the danger may be so obvious that a warning would be superfluous. This was the ruling in a case involving a welding device that had an unguarded electric fan. The borrower, cut by the fan, filed suit for damages, claiming the lender should have warned him that the blades were exposed.

But the court dismissed his action, saying that the blades—in plain sight—were their own best warning to be careful. As one judge put it, there is no duty to warn the user that a knife will cut, that a match will burn, or that a hammer will smash a thumb.

"No one needs notice," said the judge, "of what he already knows."

Good weather has continued the past week with no rain except for a little Saturday morning. Fishing in general has improved a little but is still not normal.

A few fish such as croakers, red fish, cat fish and a few flounders are being caught along the seawall and in canals and bayous.

Jourdan River, Bayou La Croix and Rotten Bayou are pretty clear with bass and perch being caught at different places. Fly fishing is getting better and some good catches have been reported. Catching fresh water fish with worms, live minnows and Shrimp is furnishing a lot of fun for those who do that kind of fishing.

Now that the full moon has passed, frogging should get better and maybe floundering will improve. A few softshell crabs, very few are being caught. Maybe they too might start giving with the low tides coming up in the evening and at night. Low tides always make for soft crabbing if there is any around.

Hard crabs are getting more plentiful. Both some big ones and Gumbo size are being caught off the seawall, both ways, to Cedar Point and Bayou Caddy.

Henry Lang one of our best soft shell crabbers said he caught some hard crabs the other day but has done no good with the soft crabs as yet. Henry keeps us posted on what they are doing.

While on the subject of crabs for the next couple of months they will be in the spawning season. That means that female crabs will be full of eggs and when caught in nets and traps should be returned to the water. This is important if we expect to have more crabs. Female crabs have thousands of eggs during the spawning stage. Be a good Sport. Keep the male crabs but throw female crabs back. There is several ways to distinguish female crabs from the male. Smarter up. Ask some who knows.

Clarence Beaudan of Waveland is an ardent fisherman. He said he will start fishing after his gardening is over. He will be eating cucumbers and tomatoes next week. Ed Virgilio is his overseer.

Mr. and Mrs. John LaPlant are visiting their friends Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mullinax in Shoreline Park. John is a retired Marine and loves all kinds of fishing. He is travelling over the country and fishing whenever he stops. In other words he is enjoying life for a while, he said.

Ted Lyman's Lake at the end of Blue Meadow Road right here near Bay St. Louis may be just a memory unless something is done to repair the dam which has broken for the third time due to heavy almost from Highway 90 to Watt's Bayou was damaged creating this Lake in the Ted Lyman Subdivision. It has been a private lake but the public has fished in the lake for years. In a short time it will be dry unless the repair is made.

Help is needed and we think it would be a worthy job for the Bay St. Louis Gun and Rod Club, the Jaycees, The Waveland Gun and Rod Club or any other Civic Organization to give a hand to help restore a cherished fishing spot.
